As a LIBRARIAN

You will enter the absorbing world of ancient and modern writings and wide-range knowledge, if you choose to be a librarian. Working in a public or school library, you will help select and organize collections of books and other writings and will help readers in their use. Some libraries also stock maps, slides, records, and paintings.

You would probably choose from two principal kinds of work: reader services and technical services.

If you perform reader services, you will deal with the public, helping them in their search for information, or planning and directing special programs for special groups, such as children or mature adults. If you perform technical services, you perhaps would purchase books and materials recommended by staff members, or you would catalog books so that they could be easily located. Some librarians work in special libraries, maintained by commercial or industrial firms.

To be a librarian, you should have an attraction to books and an interest in people and an intellectual curiosity. Education requirements are four years of college and one year of study in a graduate library school. Opportunities for good paying positions are excellent.

They're called Tom Swifties and they're featured in the new JOKES BY CRACKY. You'll find yourself adding to them — and once you've started, it will be hard to stop. Watch for JOKES BY CRACKY No. 4 — 64 pages of more brand-new jokes and riddles. It's great fun, you'll agree laughingly.

'LANCELOT LINK, SECRET CHIMP' PROVES ESPIONAGE ISN'T JUST MONKEY BUSINESS

WHITE LIGHTNING

Car racing on ice — and Wheels is one of the contestants. But his Gavilan has taken a beating after a harrowing incident. And now he's on the ice course — exhausted but determined to win a race that requires split-second timing and nerves of steel. The next issue of MOD WHEELS is a winner!

CHANG THE WIZARD

He's a sorcerer who works his powers on the Enterprise crew. Fabulous is the word for Chang — and it's also the word for the next issue of STAR TREK.

TARZAN AND THE KING VULTURE

It's a story as exciting as its title. Watch for it in next month's TARZAN OF THE APES.

FAIR WARNING

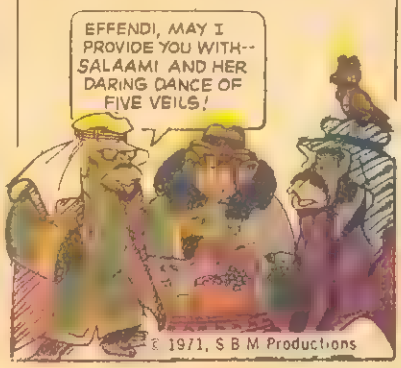
Two gentlemen have just seen a sight they're never going to forget, but you can't say they weren't warned after you read A Sore Point in the next mystery-packed issue of BORIS KARLOFF, TALES OF MYSTERY.

TRUE DEMONS AND MONSTERS

A black demon, a devil witch, a three-toed kelpie, a monster called Spring-Heel Jack — they're in the next RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

SEE IT ON TV READ IT IN GOLD KEY

Meet Lancelot Link, fearless agent for A.P.E. He's a sitting chimp for trouble as he and lovely co-agent Mata Hairi tangle with the slippery Baron Von Butcher and other members of C.H.U.M.P., a wicked organization that isn't just playing for bananas. LANCELOT LINK, SECRET CHIMP on sale next month — it's more fun than a barrel of people!



STOP THAT MIRROR

O.G. Whiz, boy president of The Tikkletoy Company, wants a magic mirror he can talk to. The mirror tells O.G. a thing or two, but what it says is enough to make any boy cry for his secretary. Continuing the exploits of that big little tycoon — O.G. WHIZ.

TA-DAH!

Super Goof combines business with pleasure as he searches for The Moon-Miners, in the next Walt Disney SUPER GOOF.

WORLD'S LARGEST SCULPTURE DEPICTED ON SIX-CENT STAMP

Sometime ago a commemorative stamp was issued at Stone Mountain, Georgia, honoring three great men, Robert E. Lee, Jefferson Davis and Stonewall Jackson, and celebrating the dedication of the Stone Mountain Memorial.

This gigantic carving, which occupies a place in the center of a 3800-acre state park east of Atlanta, is so large that a man can actually stand in the open mouth of General Lee's horse. The General's nose is five feet long.

PHILATELIC SALES UNIT

If you are not familiar with the workings of the Philatelic Sales Unit you may be missing the opportunity to purchase older stamps of the United States at almost face value. The best way to learn about this service is to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

PHILATELIC SALES UNIT
CITY POST OFFICE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20013

Many of the commemorative stamps you did not purchase in the past year will still be available. However, there is a small service fee for each order. From one to 500 items . . . 50¢; up to 1,500 items . . . $1; up to 3,000, $1.50, and so on. You will find that when you receive the instruction sheet all stamps currently on hand will be listed.

United States commemorative postage stamps issued in 1969 are contained in a souvenir folder which the Post Office Department is selling for $2.00. Twenty-three stamps, including the Moon Landing stamp, are included in this folder.

Both 1968 and 1969 souvenir folders may be purchased from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C.

COINS and MEDALS

ISRAEL

The 1971 Pidyon HaBen coin was released after the Jewish New Year. In addition to its ceremonial use, this coin is valued highly by collectors. Each new issue, released annually, will bear a slight change in design of the value side.

This is the second in the series to be released. The distribution of the first issue (1970) was discontinued September 30, 1970.

Additional information can be obtained from the office of the Director, Government of Israel Coins and Medals Dept., 850 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

GARY COOPER MEDAL

Film star Gary Cooper was honored recently on a medal commemorating Montana's statehood released by Presidential Art Medals, Inc. Englewood, Ohio.

This new medal is the 35th in a series dedicated to the nation's 50 states and famous sons. One new medal is produced quarterly.

The portrait was produced by Ralph J. Menconi, the man who produced President Richard M. Nixon's inaugural medal.

The reverse of the medal features a detailed reproduction of the Great Seal of the State of Montana. The medal is struck in silver, bronze and platinum. The silver edition has each piece serially numbered, is limited to 7,500 pieces. The bronze medal is available in unlimited edition. Each medal is struck in high-relief and measures 1¼" in diameter.
